The Adult and Youth Literacy Training Project aims to combat illiteracy in states in northeastern Brazil with a low HDI (Paraíba, Alagoas, Rio Grande do Norte and Pernambuco).

Students taking undergraduate courses in Education, Literature and History are required to undergo professional training, make regular visits to selected communities while bringing new methods and materials to improve the literacy process, and fundamentally train local literacy teachers who are involved in the project.

This project is developed in partnership with local governments of municipalities, the Ministry of Education (MEC) and the Central University Barão of Mauá.
